statesman of Europe has been subjected to more violent opposition and bitter attack from his own countrymen than Joseph Calllaux, former Premier of France, who was exiled from Paris just before the World War. He was assaulted by a crowd of young Royalists of France and severely beaten on the head, when the political debate in which he was involved became unbearable to his opponents. Domestic scandal was also used in the attack on him. He is now awaiting the termination of his exile pronounced after a irial for treason and indicates that he will return to Paris to receiver his position.

ARRIVE IN EVENING

The first group of the bombers arrived at Bangor about 5:38 p.m. (Standard time) followed rapidly by the other groups and the De-Havilands, the last of which came to a stop shortly after dark. Most of the population of Bangor was on hand to welcome the roads leading to the fields just outside the city. The armada attracted persons from many miles around this section.

Rev. Daniel Lockerbie, with two socially well-known Philadelphians in leading roles.

The bride was formerly Jean Ingel Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Barker of Gladwyn. and the bridegroom is Arthur H. Kinsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Kinsley, Overbrook.

The elopement took place Saturday evening but the news of the wedding did not become known until today.

Miss Barker, who is a graduate of Miss Sayward's school at Bryn Mawr, was to have made her debut this winter. The bridegroom is a lieutenant in the Secend City Cavalry Troop and coach of the Philadelphia Riders and Drivers' Association polo team. The pair met a year ago when Miss Barker was a member of the polo team and Mr. Kinsley, generally known among the younger set as "Bill," was the team's coach.

Flying in various serial formations, the armada gave the populations along the coast a vivid idea of some of the experience European countries underwent during the war. Rail heads and cities, factories and houses were thoroughly "bombed" by Uncle Sam's aviators in their practice for a real emergency. Halway across the bay on bomber had to drop out for a reason supposed to be ensure trouble. The other planes continued to their objective.

En route to Mitchel Field the planes went through offensive maneuvers such as bombing planes would be called on to do in case of war. Some times the armada would proceed in extended formation, extending over an area of many miles. Adopting offensive tactics, the bombers would is woop down on some objective like a railhead or a bridge and simulate the destruction of these aids to the "enemy." Especially over New Jersey were these offensive maneuvers undertaken, and had real bombs of 2000, 4000 and 600 pounds been used the State would have presented a scene of destruction.

Operators Give Reasons for Opposition

Common Viewpoint; Topic Remains Open

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Aug.

Wage rates in the anthracite industry were the chief topic of

of the renewed joint negotiations of mine operators and union officials. By common consent, both groups set aside the question of check-off for union dues and union recognition which blocked previous attempts at a settlement that would prevent a suspension of anthracite production September I, and proceeded to an analysis of the union's demands for general wage increases.

They were in no degree advanced toward a common viewpoint when adjournment was taken tonight, buff left the topic open for more discussion tomorrow. The United States Coal Commission, which induced the industry's leaders to meet again in spite of their deadlock, was given a report of the day's transactions. John L. Lewis, president, and Rinaido Cappellini, C. J. Golden and Thomas Kennedy, its three district presidents in the anthracite region, laid out the union's demand for a 20 per cent increase in piece rates a ton for mining coal.

The competition of bituminous coal and oil as substitute fuels, the operators asserted, would result in the shutting down of anthracite mines and the unstabilizing of anthracite production.

eign Minister of Great eign Minister of Great nursing back his health. A few miles away, sitting in a flower garden and receiving callers from everywhere, is Joseph Caillaux, former Premier of France, observing his term of exile from Paris and politics and awaiting the monade politics and so I left them both—the powerful Minister of England and the exiled Minister of France—both in splendid isolation and working out the future among the apple orchards of Normandy.

ment only a week ago, the possibility of Calilaux's return must be seriously considered.

Bagnoles De L'Orne, according to its advertising, is a sure cure in the side of the booklet reserved for, males, for phiebitis, varicose, veins and general complaints of the liver.

CONDITION SECRET

Now, the imperial one has never taken the public into the confidence as to exactly what ails him—that he should sojourn in France of all places at this delicate moment—so one is reminded of the saying of Talleyrand, "The first duty of a statesman is to look after his liver." Therefore, in the absence of precise details we feel free to suppose that perhaps Lord Curzon is at Bagnoles for his liver in order to became a better statesman. As to the state of his health, I may state frankly that in no time since my arrival has he on that point taken me into his confidence.

Apart from imperial mystery and imperial alloofness, he has shown imperial alloofness, he has

NO PRONOUNCEMENT

After meeting the imperial secretary who informed that "His Lordship is not visible" and after an investigation which showed that no minister of the French government had taken the trouble to precede me here and consequently there have been no "conversations" in this pine forest for the greater good of Europe. I finally did discover the imperial one taking both the air and the baths. But all that ensued—in response to my pointed suggestions that American opinion might be valuable at this hour—was as follows:

might be valuable at this hour—was as follows:

"My dear sir: I am deeply appreciative of your courtesy and ammore than sorry that you have put yourself to the trouble of coming here but while I am here for my cure I have made and kept the resolution that I would not make any progouncement to the press and to that I fear I must adhere."

My escape to that sumy flower. and to that I fear I must adhere."
My escape to that sunny flower garden in Mamers was effected without the imperial notice. With a Pekinese spaniel off one knee, wolf-hound fawning at his feet and a bull terrier guarding the garden gate Calliaux was iroffically humorous as I told him whence I had come. Then he rang for tea.

CAILLAUX FIT

Caillaux is just 60 years of age and looks not more than 45. His exile has done him good, for phy-sically he is fit and ready for any-exile has done him good, for physically he is fit and ready for anything.

After his amusement at my telling him of Lord Curzon he broke off the talk to show me the scar on his head which resulted from his recent venture with the French royalist mob at Toulouse. It was an adventure which sent him to the hospital, but which he cheerfully admits was the best thing that had happened to him since his trial inasmuch as it veered popular opinion to such a point that the question was raised in Parliament as to whether a Frenchman could be thus treated by Frenchmen with impunity.

Calliaux, while not keen about interviews, apparently had greater interest than Curzon in public opinion in the United States. He said:

"Like England after Waterloo, America emerged from the last war as the greatest world power. Unfortunately she has not yet discovered how best to use her strength."

I discovered that Caillaux's guests during the previous twenty-four hours were Anatole France and the Frinces of Monaco. Rather a wide range of friends for a man disgraced and exiled, I opined.

EXILE NEAR END

EXILE NEAR END

EXILE NEAR END
Then while not permitting direct quotations, Calliaux made no secret of his expectation of coming back to power. He reminded me that after the next parliamentary elections his exile from Paris will have only nine months to run.
"Of course." he said, "the loss of political rights—only my political rights, for they forgot to take away my other civic rights—will still have four years to run, but we hope in the meantime to have the judgement annulled."

I asked about the return of Malvy and his candidacy for Parliament.

Mary and liament.

"He is sure to be elected." Call-laux said. "just so sure as I'm sitting here.

I next asked him about Curzon. He did not sneer openly but I felt that he might. Finally I asked him about the situation in general.

the wrist, but Fitzsimmons inally developed a form of granulated or knuckles. These not only would break on him during a fight, but at other times would fester from the terrible bruisings he had inflicted on them.

In summing up the situation, one finds that Dempsey, while probably lacking quite the punching power of Fitz has better hands, and that Firpo has yet to demonstrate that he can take even one-half the punishment which Jeff absorbed, shook off and kept go-

Firpo, too, has steed up against everything which came his way. But what was back of these bombardments? A squad of third-raters, and two hasbeens. Breansa? Yes, Breansan could sock some, but was merely a seggy old boxer when he met the South American. Willard? Yes, he could hit in his prime, when he connected, which wasn't often. He landed only one fairly good blow on Firpo.

No real test of ability to take punishment in either of those fights. At least not conclusive enough to merit mention in the same breath with a man who before he had attained real skill stood up under the philless bombardment of such punchers as Choynaki and Fitzainmions.

Firpo might have been able to, but we have yet to be shown. And also, one just interest was the such puncher of such puncher in the same property of the punchers as Choynaki and Fitzainmions.

Every day of the year, no matter the condition of roads, sixteen snow-white Pierce-Arrow tank trucks haul 18,000 gallons of milk into Detroit from points as distant as 120 miles. They are operated by Ira Wilson & Sons.

The oldest Dual-Valve Pierce-Arrow now has traveled more than 100,000 miles—all since October, 1920. At 80,000 miles it was overhauled for the first time.

"We expected to spend a lot of money for new parts," says a letter from the firm, "but we spent less than $25. The rear axle (worm-drive) and transmission were perfect and we could find no need to replace any part of the engine."

Your haulage job may not be so exacting as that of Ira Wilson & Sons. But isn't Pierce-Arrow reliability and economy worth investigating? Let us show you what the modern Worm-Drive, Dual-Valve Truck with its powerful, quiet engine will do for you.

The ALASKAN ENGINEERING annual report of the Pacific States

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The Alaskan Engineering Commission, for years the mainspring of the Territory's administrative machinery in Washington, passed quietly out of existence today, to be succeeded by an organization known as the Alaska Railroad. The change will be solely one of designation, it was announced at the Interior Department, and was decided upon because of completion of the railroad work and the confusion which always has occurred between the Engineering Commission and the Alaska Road Commission, which is under the supervision of the War Department. IBY A. P. DAT WIRE ! tests successfully concluded was that of a giant Martin bombing plane, which, after finishing its prescribed trials in a communication test, using phone and buzzer signals, remained in the air for an endurance flight.

On this flight it established a new Hawalian, and what may be a new Hawalian, and what may be a new American, record for this type of machine by staying aloft nine hours. It used 230 gailons of gasolines and eleven gallons of oil, the motors turning up about 1250 revolutions a minute most of the time. The plane used was a Martin bomber NBS-1, with two 12-cylinder 400 horsepower Liberty motors. It was haadled by First Lieut. Ned Schramm, pilof with Sergt. Orville Onorate and Sergt. The defendants are Max W. Friedell of Marien, Ind., former president; Harry E. Lindley, of Harrisburg, Pa., former vice-president, and Reuben Douglass of this city, former director.

Friedell and Lindley have been confined in Moyamensing prison in default of $46,000 and $7550 ball respectively. The former was arrested in October, 1922, in Los Angeles, and brought to this city. The charges involve the asserted fraudulent acquisition of more than $1,000,000 from 400 stockholders, principally from Pennsylvania.

The corporation was organized in Delaware in 1919 with a capital steek of $18,860,000. According to the stockholders, it owner sixty one oil wells in Nontan and through the midwest, with offices in ten States.

MARKET REVIEW

C. J. McDonald, superintendent of perishable freight service for the Southern Pacific Company, said yesterday that shippers of perishable products over the lines of the Southern Pacific are favored with a greater supply of refrigerator cars this season than at any time in the past. Over 13,000 "resfers" are rolling west of Ogden and El Paso, compared with $800 at the same time last year.

Because of the substantial additions made to equipment and the sarrier crops in some sections, the Southern Pacific, Mr. McDonald says, has shipped 16,000 cars of fruit to date this season against $800 last year. Despite the heavy movement eastward the company has been bringing back an average of $50 refrigerator cars daily since July 1, which is 75 per cent more than the daily westward movement last year. The eastern shipments from California points are running around 400 cars each day.

The grape shippers will encounter the usual car shortage, according to Mr. McDonald, but the severity will be appreciably lessened by the strenuous efforts made to bring the system to the greatest point of efficiency. Absence of labor troubles, an increased daily average car mileage, reduction of the amount of equipment out or repair, heavier loading, quicker loading and unloading and more new equipment in service are factors of assistance in the expeditious movement of perishable products.

Fifty per cent of the $500 new refrigerator cars purchased last

First (Closed) Mortgage Sinking Fund 7% Gold Bonds

Denomination $1000 Interest payable semi-annually, January 1st and July 1st, at the office of the Hellman Commercial Trust & Savings Bank, Los Angeles, California, without deduction for Normal Federal Income Tax in excess of 2%. Callable by sinking fund on any interest date at 105 and accrued interest.

Exempt from Personal Property Tax in California

Application has been made to the State Banking Department to certify these bonds as legal investments for Savings Banks in California, and the issue is offered subject to this certification.

HELLMAN COMMERCIAL TRUST & SAVINGS BANK, TRUSTEE The following information is summarized from a letter from Mr. H. L. Carnahan, President of the Corporation:

The Southern California Corporation, incorporated under the laws of the State of California, owns approximately 2700 acres of land located about 12 miles northwest of the business center of Los Angeles, and lying in or adjoining the corporate limits of the City of Burbank. This tract is now being subdivided and sold for business and residential purposes. The purpose of this financing is to retire existing indebtedness against the property mortgaged under this bond issue and to provide additional working capital to be expended for further development and improvements.

PROPERTY. The property of the Corporation consists of approximately 2700 acres in one compact body and lies immediately to the northwest of the present built-up section of Burbank. It extends from San Fernand Boulevard on the south into the Verdugo foothills to the east and north, and comprises every desirable subdivision classification from business frontage to the finest residential sites.

The site of the City of Burbank Civic Center is located on the property and will comprise a Postoffice, City/Hall, Public Library, Municipal Auditorium, and other public buildings. The public High School, costing $250,000, is air ady completed, and a Grammar School will be erected to cost $150,000.

In this widespread civic development, the City of Burbank has officially recognized this tract as the logical place to accommodate the future growth of SECURITY AND VALUATIONS. This issue of $1,000,000 First Mortgage 7% Gold Bonds is, in the opinion of counsel, the direct obligation of the Southern California Corporation, and is secured by a first closed mortgage upon the 2700 acres of land above described.

This property has been appraised by Mr. R. P. Benton, an appraiser of Los Angeles, at a sound value of $6,900,000, and by Mr. F. C. Finkle, of Los Angeles, at $7,500,000. If sold in subdivision under the plan of the Corporation the value of the land is placed at $14,000,000. Based on the most conservative of these appraisals, the First Mortgage Bond Issue is less than 15% of the value of the property.

15% of the value of the property.

COLLATERAL. The First Mortgage Bonds are additionally secured by deposit with the Trustee of contracts in the face value of $2,038,000, of which there remains unpaid $1,282,000, omover 1½ times this entire issue. These contracts bear 7% interest annually and over $700,000 of the balance due is specifically assigned to the retirement of bonds of this issue. THEREFORE, APPROXIMATELY 70% OF THIS ISSUE WILL AUTOMATICALLY BE RETIRED WITHOUT ANY ADDITIONAL SALES OF LAND. The land sold under these contracts represents less than 250 acres of the total of 2700 acres under this mortgage, and has been disposed of even before a sales campaign has been organized.

Identification with the Corporation is a forecast of unqualified success.

TITLE AND LEGALITY. The California Title insurance Company of Los Angeles will issue a bond-holders' policy of title insurance in the amount of $1,000,000, insuring the Trust Deed to cover a First Mortgage on this property. All legal details have been passed upon by Messrs. Carnahan & Clark of Los Angeles for the Corporation, and by Messrs. Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, and Loeb, Walker & Loeb, of Los Angeles for the Bankers.

GERMAN MARK HAS GONE OUT

Inflated Currency No Longer Given Consideration

Price of Exchange Ceases to be True Reflector

In the Meantime Domestic Business is Good

BY ARTHUR D. WELTON [CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The Ger

(Copyright, 1903, Public Ledge...)
CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The German mark has gone out. It is now without value. For a long time it, has been straining at fractions as a means of expressing itself. For a long time the German government made daily adjustments between the cost of living index and the value of the mark, but more than a month ago that was abandoned. Now Germany can barter or use foreign money and wait. The German people may use gold with which to measure values. They can, therefore, still trade, but the confusion will continue until a strong government and some drastic legislation have done the restoration work.

Many believe the mark was deliberately depreciated with the vindictive purpose of destroying the means of measuring wealth and expressing it accurately in currency. This may well be doubted. A civilized nation, highly trained in commerce and finance, would not deliberately follow such a suicidal course.

The truth is for later revelation, but it is probable that recourse to inflation of currency in Germany came as the easy way to meet a difficulty, just as it came in other sountries. But firer the difficulties were greater, the indifference was more pronounced, corrective measures were postponed and, caught up in the enjanglement of inflationary movements, Germany went on to the end.

Went on to the end.

DEFIATION HARSH

No country, unless it is conducted by ill-advised men or acviets, deliberately surrenders to the illusion that cheap and cheapening currency is not destructive. The first step is remedial. But deflation is a harsh and unpopular process. There are many well-intentioned persons in the United States who believe that deflation was a fatal mistake and that the Federal Reserve Board had evil motives when it advanced the discount rate and urged a deflationary movement.

There are many economists who believe that France's fiscal policy is a mistake. If France doesn't balance her budget, compel payment of taxes, reduce her expenditures and accept the punishment; resort to the printing press will be her only remedy and she will follow Germany and Austria and Russia into chaos.

Great Britain taking her punishment is pointed to as the example of the other extreme. The pound sterling is at a premium in all other currencies except the dollar and the florin, but at the cost of languishine trade, unemployment doles, high taxes and political discontent.

These conditions abroad have their index of the and a proper to the proper to the proper that a premium the formation of the content of the conditions abroad have their indiagness. DEFLATION HARSH rance got off a gold base and imerica did not. So serious was he effect of such a variation on its rade, that Switzerland at one time considered deliberate inflation as a means of retting on even-money terms with her neighbors.

Consideration of the status of foreign exchanges shows that the value of any one foreign currency in terms of another became shifting and unstable once there was variation from the absolute gold standard by either. Doubless for internal trade the franc is still a perfectly good medium. Prices have gene up as its purchasing power declined, but the decline has not been great enough to make serious difference within the country. In terms of gold or the currencies of countries with high gold reserves, the purchasing power in this country has been seriously diminished.

UNBALANCED EXCHANGES

UNBALANCED EXCHANGES

The foreign exchange situation has made the American market an expensive one. On the other hand, foreign markets have been very attractive to American buyers. While it is true that imports into the United States have always increased when the business expansion was under way, the premium on the dollar everywhere has doubtless had a stimulating effect. Similarily, the depreciation in foreign currencies, a balance of trade long unfavorable to foreign countries, and the necessity of paying in gold that they need in their reserves, has reduced foreign purchases in this country to the limit of bare needs.

MINING QUOTATIONS

chases in this country to the limit of bare needs.

It is because of these conditions that numerous plans of financing foreign trade have been put forward. Germany needs wheat and meat and other food producta. Germany can pay to only a limited extent in gold, and Germany buys little wheat and pork in America. It is the same with other European countries. The dollar is at premium the world over. Other currencies are at a discount. The discount does not come as the result of unfavorable trade balances.

THE DOW THEORY

The late Charles H. Dow was founder and editor of The Wall Street Journal as well as the founder of the great Dow. movements are almost invariably of much shorter duration than built movements, the average being seventeen months.

DECLINES-REACTIONS

"The secondary movement takes the form of a sharp rally in a declining movement or a sharp reaction in a primary buil market. Concurrently with the primary or secondary movement of the market and constant throughout, there is the underlying fluctuation, day by day." Referring to the secondary movements. "The Stock Market Barometer" quoted from the Wall Street Journal of about twenty, years ago, "It seems to be a fact that a primary movement in the market will generally have a secondary movement. In the opposite direction of at least three-eights of the primary movement. If a stock advances ten points, it is very likely to have a relapse of four points or nine. The law seems to hold good no matter how far the advance gees. A rise of twenty points will not infrequently brings a decline of eight points or more. It is impossible to tell in advance the length of any primary movement, but the further it goes, the greater the reaction when it comes, hence the more certaintity of being able to trade guccessfully on that reaction."

In other words the market built in the primary movement, but the further it goes, the greater the reaction when it comes, hence the more certaintity of being able to trade guccessfully on that reaction."

NARROW FLUCTUATIONS

NARROW FLUCTUATIONS
When average closing prices fluctuate within narrow limits over a sufficient number of days for a fair volume of trading, this is known as "making a line." Buying and selling power are in equilibrium. It indicates either accumulation or distribution. A movement of the average price out of the "line." downward or upward, will confidently indicate a change in the general market direction of at least a secondary, and even a primary character, which we can depend upon where either average is confirmed by the other.

It is appropriate to repeat that "the averages must confirm each other, although they may not break other, although they may not break out of their respective lines on the same day or in the same week. It is sufficient if they take the same general direction. It is by no means general direction. It is by no means necessary that the low or the high point of a primary movement should be made in both averages on the same day. All we assume is that the market has turned, with the two averages confirming, even although one of the averages subsequently makes a new low point or a new high point, but is not confirmed by the other. The previous lows or highs may best be taken as representing the turn of the market.

representing the turn of the market."

Narrow fluctuations of average prices often precede a reaction in a buil market or a rally in a bear market. For example, in 1921 they preceded inauguration of the primary bull market, which extended through 1922 and resumed in 1923, after the usual secondary reaction.

ACTION AND REACTION.

ACTION AND REACTION
Roger W. Babson, referring to the fluctuations in security prices, has repeatedly stated that action and reaction are equal. In "The Stock Market Barometer," Hamilton takes direct issue, saying: "So far as the price movement is concerned, action and reaction are not equal. We do not have an instance of a bull market offset in the extent of its advance by an exactly corresponding decline, in a bear market. If this is true, as it demonstrably is, about the extent of the price movement in any given major swing, it is still more true about the time consumed. We have seen that bull markets are, as a rule, of materially longer duration than bear markets. There is no automatically balancing equation there.

To the Taxpayers of Los Angeles City

Letter No. 3-"THE WATER AND POWER ACTS" of the Board of Public Service.

Today a couple of friends and I went to the lower of the two San Francisquito power generating plants of the City, and found it was not operating.

We did not go to the upper plant, but judge it was not operating, because the aqueduct leading from it was dry.

The little plant at the Cascades in the San Fernando Valley had one generator operating and the other not operating; this plant, I judge, was operated by water collected over night in the little reservoir in Dry Canyon.

To make the survey complete I went to the River Power Plant, on the Ventura Boulvard, and to my amazement and consternation it was operating, and discharging into the Los Angeles River some 1500 to 1800 miner's inches of water, to make about $120.00 of power daily. This amount of water sold at irrigation rates is worth $400.00 a day to the City, and just at this time it means the difference between profit and loss on their year's business, to the alfalfa growers.

The people's water has been taken from them, to run power plants, and then these plants do not run, and the City would be in darkness except that the Southern California Edison Co. and the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Co. are standing by and holding on its feet "municipal success."

Look at these figures. Haiwee and Fairmont Reservoirs hold about the amount of water sold annually for irrigation; 75,000 acre feet. San Fernando and Chatsworth Reservoirs hold 25,000 acre feet, and were full when the irrigating season began. The Board of Public Service has just said in its answer to my complaint that the flow of the aqueduct was this year 260 cubic feet per second. Sixty of this go to Los Angeles for domestic use; therefore, 200 cubic feet per second of aqueduct water was available for irrigation; 200 cubic feet per second is 146,000 acre feet for the year, to which must be added 25,000 acre feet in the San Fermand Chattanath Baranage 171 200 nando and Chatsworth Reservoirs, or 171,000 acre feet. The irrigating use of the past three years has been annually 75,000 acre feet. How much did the City waste? A schoolboy can tell you; and mind you, this wastage is calculated on the present assertion of the Board of Public Service that we have only 260 cubic feet per second; I brought up my children on the former assurance that we had 400 cubic feet per second.

My suit comes up on Thursday, August 23, at 10 a.m. in Department 1 of the Superior Court. I have done everything in my power to have this matter properly presented to the Court. Seeing what I have seen today, tomorrow I hire an additional lawyer and an engineering firm, but Lwant to caution you not to be cast down if we do not win at once—we are sure to win in the end, but we may have chosen the wrong remedy, and we may have to pick another; but there is a maxim firmly imbedded in the common law and adopted in this State, Civil Code 3525, "For every wrong there is a remedy." And remember, too, that David "Chose him five smooth stones out of the brook."

I need more money badly. All contributions accepted under conditions of my letter No. 1, published in the Los Angeles Times on June 20, 1923.

(Signed) VOLNEY H. CRAIG.

Not so very long before the Hylan administration was reported as handing Hiram a check for $25,000 as a retainer in Hylan's public-ownership program in Tammanytown. It seems to be agreed that Johnson would make a fit spokesman for Tambahy. The organization is a bit shy of orators just now and could use a couple of handy heavyweights.

Therefore the administration in New York opens its heart and purse to Hiram and tells him that the water is fine. It beats anything flowing through the Golden Gate by more than half of 1 per cent.

The "Special" Sale

In Old Testament times, when the countries bordering on the Nile, the Euphrates and Tigris rivers were the centers of trade, the Carthaginians used to sail along the Mediterranean with a boatload on the coast of Lybia and, having lighted a bonfire near the goods, returned to their ships. The inhabitants, knowing by the bonfire that the Carthaginians had something to sell, would come out of their city to inspect it. They would pile up gold near the merchandise and retire into the city. The Carthaginians would land again, examine the gold and, if in their judgment it was equal in value to the goods they left, they would take it and sail away.

This bonfire custom is the first method of announcing "goods for sale" of which history tells. "From little sparks," say the moralists, "great conflagrations grow." And from these bonfires of the Carthaginians has grown the force that is today the most successful in securing satisfaction to the buyer and to the seller—advertising.

EMPLOYMENT TONE STRONG

Great Improvement Over Conditions Last Year Shown by Survey of National Industrial Centers

The industrial employment chart shows a big upward swing for July of this year over the same month a year ago, according to a survey just completed by the United States Department of Labor in sixty-five industrial centers.

The analysis, embracing 1428, firms, each employing at least 500 workers, indicates a healthy tone, and a spirit of optimism prevails throughout the entire industrial field.

Los Angeles is one of twenty-seven larger cities which registered a slight decrease in employment, explained by the usual seasonal drop. In tifrity-seven of the cities surveyed, however, an increase was goorded, despite the time of the year.

In the fourteen basic industries nine showed increases in employment, as follows: Beverages, 72 per cent; paper and printing, 44 per cent; indiroad repair shops, 2.4 per cent; chemicals and allied products, 2.16 per cent; chemicals and allied products, 2

hy sts so good with Coffee

WHY is Carnation so good with coffee?

Because it has twice as much butterfat as whole milk and es that creamy flavor of milk purity. Its double richness imparts to coffee a taste which, thousands say, cannot be surpassed.

Just 100 per cent cows' milk, packed air-tight to keep it clean, sweet and pure until wanted, and sterilized (heated) to the point of absolute safety - that's Carnation.

Nothing is added; nothing is taken away except part of the natural water which is removed to reduce the bulk and give you doubly-rich milk in convenient-sized containers.

To really know Carnation, use it in your coffee, on fruits and and for all other milk and cream uses. Ask your grocer to de today. Give Carnation a fair trial and realize it is the only

Since the arrival last Saturday of the Southwestern Miller Capt. Williamson has gained the distinction of being the sea's most aesthetic mariner.
The Southwestern Miller, a new ship, is spick-and-span in a glistening coat of red and whise. Which is all common enough except that when she docked here from Antwerp her clinker-type lifeboats, hanging trimly in their davits, seemed each to be floating in the blue waters of some rippling sea. Local mariners were mystified.
The boat deck of the Southwestern Miller beneath the lifeboats has been painted in indigo blue. This blue, in subdued tones, is reflected against the white hulls of the boats. Their clinker-type construction gives them the effect of being afloat on a rippling sea. British steamers are common at Los Angeles Harbor but the Southwestern Miller has been crowded during the last three days by seafaring and shipping men, their curiosity aroused by this mystifying fillusion.
